In seeking real transformation, we can discover our own true nature, through working with other people who are also seeking. How do we come to the “sense of the meeting”? How can my exploration of who I really am fit into a deeper understanding of my place with others and within a larger purpose?

This year, we invite all to come and work with the ideas and methods of G.I. Gurdjieff and J.G. Bennett as together we explore our true nature.

The seminar begins with dinner on the evening of Saturday, June 23, and continues with morning exercise at 7:30 a.m. on Sunday, June 24. We work with Gurdjieff movements, morning exercise, practical physical work, themes, arts, shared meals, and meditation, finishing on the morning of July 1. For a longer visit, consider attending the Movements Seminar immediately preceding this event.

The summer seminar fee include programs, accommodations, and meals. We suggest $450 for the general public, and $300 for students ages 19-26, with work/study opportunities available. In choosing your fee amount, consider paying a little more than you can comfortably afford. Please send your deposit of $250 by June 1.

We are under the domination of our thinking mind. This is our slavery. So long as this mind dominates me, I believe that I am my thought, that I am my body, and I cannot know consciousness, my true nature... I can only listen, in order to hear better. Silence emerges... silence, stillness.

The Reality of Being

When we seek the “sense of the meeting” we allow ourselves to be directed to the solution that awaits us. It is a process of surrender to our highest nature...
